NUTRITION EXPERT IN CHARGE HERE

Professor Flora Thurston Secured by Home Bureau To Conduct Training Schools For Women of Ulster County.

Through the county Home Bureau the women of Ulster county are going to have the opportunity of studying nutrition this year under Professor Flora Thurston, nutrition specialist from Cornell University. Professor Thurston is recognized by the department at Washington as the best nutrition specialist in extension work throughout the United States.

Last year Professor Thurston only directed the work in the county. This year she will take personal charge of it. The work to be taken up this year will include a short time project on digestive problems taking up:

1. What the elementary tract is and what it does.
2. Relieving simple difficulties in the stomach.
3. and 4. Simple difficulties in the intestines and how to relieve them.

This project was decided upon last spring when the nutrition leaders from thirteen communities met in Kingston to discuss the nutrition work of the past year and decide on the program for the coming year. Throughout the year many complaints of digestive troubles have been brought to the leaders and it was thought that this project would help a great many people. Only communities who took the first year nutrition project can take up this second year project.

The first training school was held Saturday, October 13, at Accord. The leaders from Accord, Kerhonkson, and Allgerville being present. Another training school will be held in the Walkill Valley in the near future. Other communities who might still wish to take up the nutrition work may send their request to the Home Bureau office, Kingston as soon as possible.

MASONIC CLUB FAIR THREE DAYS NEXT WEEK

The Masonic Club will hold a fair and dance on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, October 24, 25 and 26. The wives and sweethearts of the club members have this fair in charge, and it looks like a big time for these three days. The fair will be open each afternoon of these days, dancing each evening by an orchestra that has the faculty of "hitting it up" to make a dance "peppy." There will be a fancy booth, "sweet goodie" booth, and a "nonsense" booth.

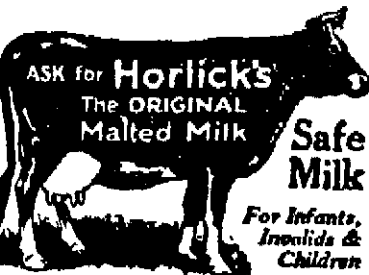

Dainty refreshments will be on sale in charge of the club members. A small admission fee will be charged to enter the fair and another small charge to the men who dance. The club rooms are on Broadway near Henry street.

Shirkers in Abraham's Day.

There were always some people in the world who shirked their work. Far back in the days when Ur of the Chaldees where Abraham lived was a fine city they had them. Perhaps because there were so many of them the Father of the Faithful got up and left. Not long ago men were digging in the ruins of the old city, one of them tells us, searching for the foundation deposits of a temple. The diggers came across a small box containing a statuette of the ancient king carrying the first basket of earth from the site, and underneath that he found a beautifully polished but perfectly blank marble tablet. Upon this should have been the history of the building, but he could only assume that the scribe had drawn pay for work he never performed. Probably no one ever knew of the rascality until the English explorers discovered it.

Lightning Worth 1.2 Cents a Bolt.

Lightning, symbol of power since time immemorial, is worth just 1.2 cents per bolt, engineers of the General Electric company in Schenectady, N. Y., estimate. The voltage, or electrical pressure, of a stroke of lightning is 50,000,000 volts, they figure. But as "fast as lightning" is no idle phrase, they claim, and a flash is so soon over with that the energy involved is exceedingly small. One thousandth part of a second is the time which a flash usually lasts. If the assumed current of the flash, 1,000 amperes, is multiplied by the number of volts, they explain, a power of 50,000,000 kilowatts is obtained. In one second the energy produced is therefore only 500 kilowatts. At the rate of eight cents per kilowatt hour charged in this city, the value of one of these discharges of Nature's heavy artillery would be only 1.2 cents.

Before she gets him she is always talking about his worth. But after she gets him she is always talking about his worthlessness.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION CHANGES NAME.

Business of great importance was transacted at the 65th annual state convention of the New York State Sunday School Association, just held at Rochester.

The name of the organization has been changed, in conformity with the action of the international body and the several state organizations, to read "New York State Sunday School Council of Religious Education."

Upon approval by the secretary of state, the new name will take effect. Dr. Joseph Clark was made consulting general secretary, with advisory relationship to the new state general secretary, Elmer Yelton.

William H. Beers of Rochester was elected president of the association for 1923-24. Herbert L. Hill of Jamaica, Arthur Clinton of Elmira, Leon B. Randall of Schenectady and Miss Norma Frank of Albany were re-elected chairman, treasurer, secretary and assistant treasurer, respectively.

The city for the 1924 convention has not been selected, but it will be in the eastern part of the state.

A budget of $50,000 was approved by the executive committee, which held a three-day session. The convention attendance was over 2,000, with paid registrations of 1,600, representing almost every county in the state.

WARREN'S WINDOW AN AUTUMN STUDY

The show window of the sporting goods store of Charles A. Warren on Fair street has been attractively trimmed with autumn leaves of bright colors, cornucopia and pumpkins, among which has been artistically placed stuffed game birds, shot guns, shells, hunting knives and other articles now in demand at the beginning of the hunting season. The window display is much admired by pedestrians who stop and view the arrangement.

Over-Neatness Causes Agony in Some Homes

There is a woman who prides herself on being such a flawless housekeeper. It is true that she makes life a burden for her family and friends, and no one really likes her, but that signifies nothing when she reflects that her house is as neat as wax. Do you suppose for a moment that she would allow her husband and children to enter by the front door? No—a thousand times, no. That front hall is in perfect condition, and—some one might call. If that some one should chance to be a woman she wanted to show her a thing or two and make her feel small. What her own husband and children think doesn't matter. They have always to enter at the back door, and to be sure their feet are well dusted before entering.

None of her family loved her—they couldn't—but always had a cringing, quaky feeling when they came home. Her will is law. Better to die than drop a speck of anything greasy on the immaculate floor, or spill anything on that sacred table linen. With her order is life itself. Neatness is her fetish, before whom she worships every moment of her life. She has a certain day for everything, and the mountains must be removed, and the sun change its course, before she would change her day for any duty. When a friend asks her if she is going on Friday afternoon to that lecture on "How to Make a Home Happy," she replies icily, "I go anywhere on Friday, when that is my sweeping day? Well, I guess not."

If she comes in and finds a chair a little out of the position in which she has placed it she always flies into a rage. If a book is not at a certain angle or a newspaper not folded correctly it makes her furious. She is always trying to think of some corner left uncleaned, and worrying for fear her bread will not rise on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

For church or society she has no time. She hates to go out because she always sees so many things that are not straight, and then she does not care to mingle with women who are not neat housekeepers; women who are foolish enough to enjoy life and do not care a rap whether the table cover is at the right angle or not; whose happy children and husbands come rushing in at the sacred front door any time they wish, regardless of clean floors and carpets.

Ostrich Trimmings on Gowns and Accessories

Ostrich feather trimmings are seen on the new evening dresses and all sorts of accessories to the evening toilette feature these plumes, observes a fashion writer in the New York Tribune. A very simple frock of silk may be made quite effective by the addition of a feather motif.

Among the recent importations from Paris is a model of dull green crepe made on straight lines. The back of the bodice is cut very low and the skirt is subtly draped to one side. A decorative panel made of silver cord suspending three large ostrich motifs forms the only trimming.

A frock for a young girl is of lemon yellow silk and has a large motif of golden brown feathers at the waistline. The necklines of evening dresses for the jeune fille are sometimes outlined with a narrow feather banding in a color to match the frock. Frequently a headband to correspond with the trimming on the dress is worn.

Young girls in Paris are affecting small muffs of ostrich in the evening. These, while in a color to match the dress, are tinted from light to dark shades. They are particularly attractive when carried with frocks of the wide-skirted variety.

able Neckpiece With Hat of Black Beaver

The sable neckpiece is very appropriate when worn with a smart hat black beaver. The model is trimmed with Japanese algette.

May Use Lace Scarf for Picturesque Touch

Silver cloth tinted with an apricot shade is used for a model featuring a clinging chiffon scarf. The foundation, which is long and slim, has a scalloped hem and a low-blooming neckline accentuated by a thickly padded grille of fruits made of green and gold silk. The scarf is hand-painted in colors to match the grille and covers the entire back of the bodice as well as the arms, the ends trailing on the ground at the front.

These scarves are particularly effective when made of metallic lace or of the dyed in a color to match the foundation. The use of lace lends a picturesque touch to the bodice gown. Designers have been quick to take advantage of this. Aside from the lace, lace may be introduced in a skirt, sleeves, cuffs or godet panels.

Use FREEMAN advertising regularly and conservatively and results will surely follow.

A STUDY IN EMPHASIS.

Volstead Law worshippers delight in printing the second section of the Eighteenth Amendment like this:

The Congress and the several states SHALL have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

If you have read the preceding quotations hastily, as you probably have, what impression has it left on your mind? That it is an imperative order?

If so, read it again, carefully and without the emphasis that you unconsciously gave to the word "shall," which is not printed in capital letters in the official copies of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Try this on members of your family and on your friends. Probably nine-tenths of them, on hasty reading, will be so obsessed by the "shall" in capital letters that the impression left on their minds will be that of an imperative command. Then have them read it printed this way:

The Congress and the several states shall HAVE concurrent POWER to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

But the best way to read it is without any words in capital letters and without any undue emphasis. And the more thoroughly familiar you become with it, and with the first section which forbids the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, the more clearly you will see the lack of reason for the existence of the Volstead Law and the former Mullan-Gage Law.

REFORMING POLYGAMISTS.

Prohibition of polygamy in the new Turkey is reported to be meeting determined opposition, although Mustafa Kemal himself has set the example by having but one wife. Kemal is denounced not only for interfering with the "habits of the people" but for disregarding the sacred Koran in which the Prophet tolerated a plurality of wives. It is also complained that the economic situation is against the reform, there being half a million more women than men in Turkey, who are not as in America and Europe, absorbed into business as executives, secretaries, stenographers, or into the professions as artists, physicians and teachers. Kemal might reply that the economic situation would be bettered if these surplus women supported themselves instead of crowding the harems of prideful men willing to ruin themselves in order to boast of many wives.

It will not be surprising if Salih Hoda, the alert leader of the opposition in the national assembly, should turn even to America for proof that monogamy is unenforceable. He could show from our divorce statistics that there is among us an increasing tendency toward at least a successive plurality of husbands as well as wives. He could even quote an "advanced" contributor to the New Republic as saying that "monogamy has never existed in this world" and is hopelessly behind the times. In any case the Turkish reformers may as well expect hard sledding as they worthily attempt to do away with polygamy. Customs rooted in many centuries of practice can not be undone in a day.

HELP FOR STRANDED GIRLS.

The Girls' Service League of America maintains a club at 133 East 19th street, New York, where stranded girls may stay free of charge until they find work or arrangements are made for their return to their own homes. Writing to the New York Times, the League's secretary says: "Hundreds of young girls come to New York every year from other cities and from the country, attracted by the stories they have heard of the gayety, the chances to go on the stage or into the 'movies' or to earn large wages in more every-day work. Many of them are only 16 or 17 years old. They have no idea how much money is required for the bare necessities of living in New York and are soon penniless. They often hesitate to appeal to their parents, dreading to hear 'I told you so.' Stranded in a big city, a young girl desperately needs a friend. We strive to give her the friendship she needs." The obvious difficulty facing this worthy and useful League is in conveying to the girls in need of such help information as to where it can be obtained and in housing and caring for them all even if they could be reached. More than ever in these times there are in all great cities many girls who have left their homes with too little money, too little experience and too little ability to undertake the careers they have ambitiously planned for themselves. Inevitably in many cases their money is used up before they find employment, they are rejected from boarding houses, and then they face the temptation to permit themselves—for the mere sake of food, warmth and rest—to become the prey of persons on the lookout for them, ready to lure them by fraud or persuasion into "the easiest way." Though the Girls' Service League can accomplish its aims only to a limited extent, it is obviously striving to meet a great need.

WHERE IS YOUR HEART?

If you were suddenly asked to place your hand over your heart I wonder how near you would come to being right?

Many people would put their hand on their left breast just a little below the nipple, because they have felt or seen the heart beating here. And this is nearly right in so far as the "beat" is concerned, but the heart itself is much further over to the right side than most people think.

In fact it would be possible for a man to be shot through the right side of the chest, close to the breast bone, and the bullet would go through his heart, because the heart lies directly under the breast bone, mostly to the left of course.

So to get an idea of the location of the heart and the big vessels arising from it, you just look at your breast bone. Up near the top you'll see or feel a lump where two parts of the bone meet. This is the upper border; go down the breast bone to an inch of the bottom and you have the lower border. The right border is an inch to the right of the breast bone, and the left border curves down to the left, coming within about an inch of the nipple.

As the heart beat is all you can see or feel about the heart, a word about it might be of help. It is the lower portion of the heart striking against the chest wall. It should be about a half inch to the right of the nipple and about an inch below it.

Sometimes the nipple is close to the breast bone and sometimes at a considerable distance, so that a point  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to 3 inches from the middle of the breast bone would be about the normal spot for the heart beat. Now the location varies with different types and ages. For instance, in a short stout person the heart is higher up than in a long thin person—a difference of a couple of inches sometimes. In youngsters also, the heart is higher up than in older people.

Lying on either side will shift the heart in either direction.

In very thin persons the heart may appear to be very strong against the chest wall, whereas in a fat person it may be lost entirely.

If you find pulsations at other points than the above place, even when you are at rest, it might be well to consult your family physician.

TWO GIRL EVANGELISTS

AT HURLEY CHURCH

Special services were started on October 14, at the Hurley Reformed Church which will continue for two weeks, every evening, except Monday, at 7:30. They are being conducted by Miss Irene Brainard and Miss Agnes Gelger, girl evangelists. The sincere way in which Miss Brainard gives each message leaves a deep and lasting impression upon the listeners.

Miss Gelger is equally talented as a singer. Her natural knowledge of music combined with the musical training which she has received makes her most efficient in conducting the singing.

There was a large congregation Sunday evening. Everybody is welcome.

"JIMMIE" HARE WITH PENNINGTON STUDIOS

The Pennington Studios have been fortunate in securing the services of the famous "Jimmie" Hare—war photographer for Collier's Weekly during the Spanish-American War, Russo-Japanese War, Balkan War, Mexican Revolution and for Leslie Magazine during the World War. Only Mr. Hare's fondness for Kingston as a home has made it possible to secure such a valuable and well known assistant. His illustrated talks of thirty minutes to two hours duration have received favorable comment from many prominent clubs in the United States.

VALLEE ALTERATION WAS OVER LINE FENCE.

The case of Minnie Vallee, who was indicted by the last grand jury, was arraigned before Judge Fowler Monday morning in county court. Mrs. Vallee recently moved to Rosendale, purchasing a farm there. The trouble arose over a line fence and the two women got quarrelling over the fence which had not been moved for some time, until Mrs. Myer changed. It was Mrs. Vallee would not stand for it being changed and then they had an altercation. William D. & William D. Brincker, Jr., appeared for Mrs. Vallee in the matter.

A Halloween Social.

A committee of the Warts Street Baptist Sunday school is working out plans for an old fashioned masked Halloween social to be held in the Sunday school room Wednesday evening, October 31. A "scroochy" program is being arranged with more thrills than a ten reel movie. Prizes will be awarded for the best costume also for the most comical. Thrills, chills and fun will be the order of the evening.

Would Dodge Penalty.

Some small town citizen wrote to his congressman for a current patent office report. This was promptly forwarded to him under the usual departmental postal wrapper which has in one corner the notice "Penalty for private use, $300." In due time the congressman got the following letter: "Dear Sir: I received the book, but I see the penalty for private use is $300. So I have turned the volume over to our public library."

LECTURES ON BOY

entz push, for "The average boy is the incorrigible and incurable lover of a holiday." Local grandparents may deny this about their own grandson and say he loves his school and his books. Being a grandparent himself, the bishop said he had discovered the psychology of grandparental pride lay in the fact that they have all the fun and none of the responsibility. If the boy does love books in preference to holidays and play in this stage, he is not normal.

Touches Political Issues.

Bishop Hughes said he had no patience with prudes who go around telling boys there is no Santa Claus—trying to destroy the boy's realm of fancy for the sake of truth. The boys soon enough come to realize the serious problems of life, the great political questions he must decide.

"Listen to me on one great political question. Normally, I am a Republican, but I wear no collar, but when any Republican takes a stand against prohibition, he can't have my vote. He can have the rum votes if he wants it, but he can't have mine. I don't say that just here, but I say it everywhere."

But to get back to a political-moral question of which he wanted to speak, he had become personally acquainted with Senator Beveridge whom he wanted to see re-elected United States senator because for twelve years he had been the unalterable foe of child labor. It would have been far more creditable for the senate to have settled the child labor question before it took up the tariff. While our senators are talking tariff on kid gloves and shoes, 1,250,000 little children are starving around in factories or in the darkness of mines.

"The first thing I know," said Bishop Hughes, "I'll be back in politics again, it's a fortunate thing bishops are elected for life." But he would continue to speak out against such conditions as these, and he prophesied that he would see the time when a factory or mill or mine owner who tries to employ little children will not be allowed a place in the Christian church.

The Boy's Second Stage.

The second, or self-conscious stage, found the boy a lonely unit, having a mean time of it. The main characteristic is downright awkwardness, beginning with his feet. Intended for locomotion, they find other occupations. His hands are the same, but they find no occupations. When they can't stand it any longer, they flee to the only blessed refuge until he remembers that nobody in his society carries their hands in their pockets. "Thank goodness, that old rule of etiquette is gone," he said, "and I hope nobody will ever again be allowed to write it in."

This is the age of cowlicks and warts. He is in the pin-feather stage. Mother reminds father that the boy looks shabby—needs a new suit. Father speaks of the heavy expenses mother is always bringing up, until he remembers the boy is half his and that mother is not wearing out the boy's clothes. Then father suggests, "Remember, he's growing. We'll get him a big suit and let him grow into it." Anybody knows the suit won't last until the boy grows into it. Then comes the change of voice. Nobody asks the boy to sing solos now.

He is not only physically but intellectually awkward; he wants to drop out of school and "get a job," but if he does, all he will have for the rest of his life is a "job." The bishop did not know New York statistics, but those of Indiana he was acquainted with. A New York woman who had been educated in Boston and adopted what she thought was a Boston accent was sent for to deliver a talk to an Indiana graduating class which had two girls for every boy. She spoke on "The necessity of higher education for girls." He felt like telling her to "look around," to tell her that if two-thirds of the girls ever got married, they would have to marry ignoramuses unless more boys were educated. He was not asking that one less girl should graduate, but he pleaded for that democracy of education which would send them to the graduation platform legally.

4 LECTURE. . . . . Methodists? . . . . . In the second stage, the boy is all awkward socially. He wants a second place of cake but is too proud to cry when he doesn't get it. He used to have a girl of his own age, but now she has grown four years older socially and only associates with boys five years older. Nobody thinks him handsome except his mother and grandmother and some times they have their doubts. It is stage every boy attends his own funeral because something has happened. If he makes a social break, memory remains with him until the humor acquired with later years takes out the sting. Give him comradeship which will give him self respect. There is no more dangerous time in anybody's life than when they cannot respect themselves. The boy is entitled to be called by his right name, just as any man is. To call him "Johnny" unless that is his name is an infringement of his rights, and the sooner the miserable "bud" drops out of the vocabulary, the better.

The Third Stage.

In the third, or man-conscious stage, he becomes aware of other people of social opportunity. He discovers other boys' sisters are attractive. Formerly he blackened only the fronts of his shoes; now he blackens the backs also; he's getting ready to enter the third stage. Formerly he thought water was for two purposes: drinking and swimming; there is a distinction between swimming and bathing; the former is necessary, but the boy has doubts about the latter in his previous stage. When it is no longer necessary to ask to see his hands, he is getting ready for the third stage, whose final test is the disappearance of the "high water" mark. For parties, he wants collars and cuffs sent to the laundry so they will "look a little better," and the extra "nickel or two" to send them there is well invested. It's a great time in a boy's life when he understands that the Temple of God is entitled to clean covering, and that other people's eyes are entitled to a clean sight when they look at him. If he saw a man anywhere who arose and claimed to be wholly sanctified but who was covered with dirt and filth, Bishop Hughes said he would be inclined to call him a liar.

The boy begins his break into society by taking somebody home from somewhere. General Grant never planned his campaigns more carefully than the boy plans his first experience of this sort. The bishop said that was how he got his own start and he felt sorry for young people who have no singing schools or spelling bees.

We get very sentimental about the boy in this period. A boy's best friend is his mother. It is a pity the father also isn't the best friend. A boy asked the bishop advice about something and was told to ask his father. He replied, "I can't. He's only my father. He isn't my friend."

The Fourth Dimension.

There was also a fourth dimension for the boy, and that was God-consciousness. No man ever steeped himself so deep in atheism as to get entirely away from God. We say that "in the bright lexicon of youth, there's no such word as fail," but just the same your high school and college boys have a lot of "front" and "bluff" and not nearly the self-confidence you think they have.

Bishop Hughes spoke of the experiences of young clergymen in delivering their first sermon. The young doctor who hangs out his shingle may wait four months for the emergency call which will be his first "case." And while he is feeling his patient's pulse, if his own temperature were to be taken he would be discovered to be feverish. If he wasn't feverish, the bishop wouldn't want that kind of a doctor in his household if a member stood on the threshold between life and death.

In conclusion, Bishop Hughes related effectively James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "How did you rest last night?" and in closing said he hoped that after displaying so much patience, each of his audience would rest well that night.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to Bishop Hughes for his lecture, and while the audience was still standing, the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Pressley.

Thorn Tree Cure for Ills.

The May blossom is the subject of some curious superstitions. Both the black and white thorn are said to be descended from the thorn of India, which, being sprung from lightning, is not only immune from danger in a thunderstorm, but possesses many magical gifts, a recent writer says, according to the Detroit News. The leaves from it are believed by many people to be a cure for all cases of inflammation, while a bough of blossom hung at the door is a safeguard against witches, but the blossom should not be taken into the house lest it bring disease with it. Many old countrymen will not cut down a Hawthorne bush. They do not know why, though actually they are perpetuating an old belief that the bush is sacred, because from it, it is said, the crown of thorns for Christ was made.

The Virgin of Guadalupe.

The Virgin of Guadalupe is the patron saint of Mexico, and more especially of the Mexican Indians. According to the legend, the Virgin Mary appeared to a converted Indian, named Juan Diego, in 1531, on the hill of Tepeyac, near the City of Mexico, and, addressing him in his own language, told him that she wished a temple built to her on that very spot. At the foot of the hill is the church of Nuestra Señora de Guadalupe, completed in 1709. It contains an exquisite picture of the Virgin, said to have been miraculously imprinted by her on the surface of Diego's blanket. Guadalupe Hidalgo, with the sanctuary of the Virgin of Guadalupe, is situated about two miles north of the City of Mexico.

An Artist's Problem.

Of course, an artist's whole problem must be, as Carlyle wrote to me, the expressing with articulate clearness, the thought in him—I am almost inclined to say that clear expression should be his only work and care, for he is born, ordained, such as he is—and not born learned in putting what was born in him into words—whatever can be clearly spoken out to be. But "words and mortar" is very easily said, and some of the thoughts in "Sordello" not so readily. . . . I sin forty times in a day by light words and untrue to the thought.—Robert Browning.

BARNYARD NOISE

"Shriek, shriek," said Mrs. Goose. "Shriek, shriek," yelled Mr. Gander. Let's go off by ourselves," said Mrs. Goose. "The others aren't good enough for us." "True," yelled Mr. Gander. "They're not for us to bother about."

So the other geese did as Mrs. Goose and Mr. Gander suggested and went off by themselves. "Cock-a-doodle-do," said Red Top, the Rooster. "I have found a worm. First come, first served."

Up hurried Miss Brown Hen, but then she saw an automobile going along the road and she rushed to the road and ran across to the other side, hurrying before the automobile as fast as she could go.

"That was a foolish thing to do," said Mrs. White Hen, when Miss Brown Hen came back again.

"You were perfectly safe on this side of the road and you went away out of your way to rush across to the other," Mrs. White Hen added.

"I forgot that I was safe," said Miss Brown Hen. "I heard the tooting of that horn and I thought I must rush. That was my own idea."

"Well, I can't blame you much, if at all," said Mrs. White Hen. "That is the sort of thing I'd do too."

But by this time Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen had eaten the nice juicy worm for she had been the first to get to it and Red Top had said,

"First come, first served."

So he had acted as he had said he would and had given the worm to the one who had reached him first.

"Cockle, cockle," said Miss Red Hen. "I am all a-flutter. There is going to be a barnyard concert tomorrow and I am going to sing a solo."

"Were you asked to sing a solo?" asked Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen. "No," admitted Miss Red Hen, "but I shall take my music along with me. Then when some one says,

"Dear Miss Hen, won't you please sing?" I shall say I am quite out of practice, and really I don't believe I can, and that had I known I would be called upon I would have brought along a song or two."

"And then when I am urged still harder I shall say,

"Dear me, dear me, now isn't this fortunate? I've just discovered that under my right wing is a piece or two of music which I must have put there without thinking."

"That is what I shall say."

"Who are getting up the concert?" asked Red Top.

"The Ducks," said Miss Red Hen. "Well, I'm glad to know about it," said Red Top. "For I shall be prepared myself to crow."

"I know a splendid early morning single song which I made up myself not long ago, and it goes like this."

Red Top got upon a stump and crowed this little song:

Cock-a-doodle-do,
This I say to you,
Cock-a-doodle-do,
I also say this too.
There's nothing very new
In my cock-a-doodle-do,
But oh how very
Can cock-a-doodle-do,
It is the rooster's
Aye!

From it he'll never Part.
Cock-a-doodle-do,
Cock-a-doodle-do,
Well, the word Got around the barnyard that there was going to be an entertainment, and a concert
the following day, and all the animals except the geese began practicing songs
so they'd be all ready if they were called upon.

And they all saw to it that they were called upon.

Maybe you would have said the barnyard concert was a very queer kind of a concert, but one thing they all did do—they all made a terrific barnyard noise.

So it was voted a great success!

She Had Good Reason.
"Bridget, has Johnnie come from school yet?"
"Yes, sir."

"Have you seen him?"
"No, sir."

"Then how do you know he's home?"
"Cause the cat's hidden under the stove."

Making the Grade.
A small boy went to school for the first time. He came home and was questioned as to his experiences. "Nothing much happened," he said. "There was a woman there who wanted to know how to spell cat, and I told her."

CELERY COMBINATIONS

Those who eat the greatest variety of vegetables in season will need no blood purifiers or tonics. Celery is especially good as a nerve tonic and is said to be good for those suffering with rheumatism. Celery is one of the vegetables which combines well with meats, fruits, as well as other vegetables.

Celery Soup.—Cut up three cupsful of celery into small pieces and bruise with a potato masher. Cook in boiling water until tender, then rub as much of the pulp as possible through a sieve. Scald two and one-half cupsful of milk, with a slice of onion, then remove the onion and add the milk to the celery pulp and liquor. Blend with three spoonfuls of butter, cooked with three spoonfuls of flour; season with salt and white pepper and add a beaten egg just before serving.

Creamed Celery in Cheese Shell.—Prepare cooked celery by adding it to a cream sauce and a cupful of parboiled oysters. The oyster liquor may be used for part of the liquid in making the white sauce. Turn into a shell of pineapple or Eclair cheese, cover with buttered crumbs and baked cheese and wrap the cheese in a brown paper. Bake until thoroughly hot. Remove the paper and serve on a folded napkin.

Celery Croquettes.—Cook together one large potato and three-quarters of a cupful of chopped celery until tender. Remove the potato and mash it fine. Drain the celery, mix it with the potato; add two tablespoonfuls of chopped pecans, one-half tablespoonful of butter and turn out to cool. Form as usual into croquettes and fry in deep fat. Serve hot with any desired sauce.

Stuffed Celery.—Take white, tender stalks of celery, wash and wipe dry, and fill with a seasoned cheese mixture. One may use cream cheese, plaited cheese, or a mixture of two cheeses. Fill the stalks and cut them into half-inch lengths. Arrange on a head lettuce and serve with French dressing. The stalks may be left four or five inches long and served in that manner, or serve them with a simple salad, one stalk on the side of the salad plate.

LUTHERAN TEACHERS MEET IN THREE-DAY CONFERENCE

The annual conference of Lutheran Christian Day School teachers of the Atlantic District, Missouri Synod, was held at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran School, Brooklyn, October 11-13. There were four sessions in all. Attendance was almost perfect throughout the conference.

As usual, one morning session was devoted to so-called practical or model lessons conducted by various teachers with pupils of the 7th and 8th grades. The program for this year included the following: Bible history, Elijah and Elisha (E. Bennett); physiology, respiration (George Weichmann); English, nominative case of nouns (A. Pittelkow); nature study, trees (M. Greunke). Besides, a series of instructive papers was read. John Wambach discussed the technicalities of singing in school, while M. Dressler spoke on "Language in Our Schools." Louis Laucke, re-elected chairman, concluded his essay on "Ancient and Modern Civilization." A most interesting lecture was delivered by Fred Kellermann whose subject was "Modern Methods of Teaching American History." Mr. Kellermann has specialized on this topic for several years under the guidance of Professors Beard and Bagley, noted historians of Columbia University.

On Friday afternoon, October 12, a joint conference of Lutheran pastors and teachers was held. On this occasion, A. C. Stelhorn, executive secretary of the General School Board of Missouri Synod spoke at length on conditions with regard to Lutheran parochial schools. He reported progress throughout the nation. Since the beginning of last year, 59 new school buildings were dedicated within the Missouri Synod. Sixteen new schools are now under construction. In addition, 16 new ones have been organized within the past months. Besides, Lutheran Normal Schools at River Forest, Ill., and Seward, Neb. are again overcrowded. Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran School, Missouri Synod, of this city, on Livingston street, was represented by both its teachers, Messrs. Fred Elmes and Herbert D. Bruening.

In 10 Days New beauty—new safety—new delights, by combating film on teeth

Here is a free test everyone should make. This week your dentist will present it to you.

It will show you a new way of teeth cleaning, which millions now employ. You will be amazed and delighted. Go today and get it.

Combat that film

Film is your teeth's great enemy—that viscous film you feel. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That's why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Nearly everybody has suffered from these film-caused troubles.

Dental science has in late years found two great film combatants.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

All Cooks Look Alike

to the hungry man, but what a sad disappointment when the "kitchen queen" quits suddenly and the table looks anything but satisfying to a zealous appetite. When in doubt as to what to do, use The Freeman's "Help Wanted" Cent-a-Word Department.

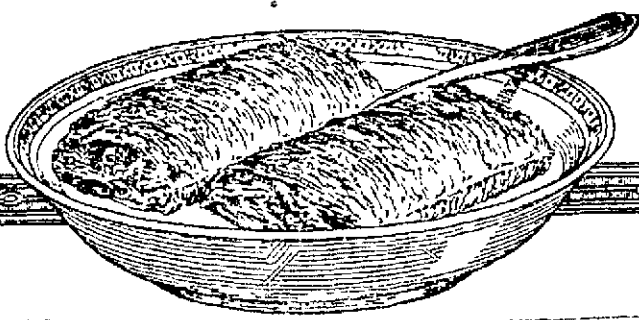

Maestro Nini Rinaldi

Before an audience of masters and music lovers, many of whom travelled hundreds of miles to hear him, Maestro Nini Rinaldi, 12-year-old musical prodigy, of Milan, Italy, conducted an orchestra of 250 musicians, who played his own oratorio, "The Childhood of St. John the Baptist." Critics declared, with a little more maturity, the oratorio would have been a classic. The boy, however, is beginning to show that he is spoiled, and his mother has withdrawn him from the public until he reaches an age where he can handle himself.

DON'T STARVE THE "KIDDIES"

Stuffing them with indigestible foods may please their appetites, but it does not build perfect, robust bodies. There is more real muscle-building, bone-making material in Shredded Wheat Biscuit than in potatoes, eggs or mushy porridges—and the crispness of the shreds of baked wheat encourages thorough chewing, which means good digestion and sound teeth. Contains just enough bran to prevent that bane of all childhood—constipation. It is an all-day food, delicious for breakfast, for lunch, for dinner.

Breakfast For Twenty!

Seems as if everybody has an appetite equal to four ordinary appetites when Reliance Pancakes are served for breakfast.

Blended in the good-old-fashioned country style, of wheat and corn flour, with powdered milk, salt and soda added—all ready to use.

No fussing and studying recipes with Reliance Flour. Simply mix up a batter and put on the griddle.

COVERING RAVAGES OF WAR

Belgians Have Accomplished Wonders
In Restoring Devastated Areas
—Public Edifices Rebuilt.

By the end of the year, if building goes on with the speed it has now attained, the war wilderness of Flanders not only will have resumed its prewar aspect in point of housing accommodation, but will have modern improvements unknown in 1914.

Motoring through the historic battle-ground today one is impressed by the capacity of production of the Belgian people. Shell-choked wastes have given place to productive pastures and extensive vegetable gardens. Shattered walls have been replaced by comfortable farm houses. Men and women are gathering sustenance from fields which were the theater of armies.

Almost 75,000 private dwellings out of 100,000 destroyed or damaged have been built, and most of these are occupied by their former inhabitants. Only ninety of the destroyed or damaged public buildings of Flanders remain unrepaid. The reconstruction of private houses has entailed an expense of 685,000,000 francs. The public edifices have cost 125,000,000 francs to rebuild. Most of this work has been done by the government through its special reconstruction department, the Devastated Regions office.

DAD SURELY HARD TO PLEASE

"Hit High, Hit Low." Old Gentleman Evidently Was Determined Not to Be Satisfied.

The son of a Boston lawyer at the end of his first term in college exulted in the fact that he stood next to the head of his class.

"What! Next to the head?" exclaimed his father. "What do you mean, sir? I'd like to know what you think I send you to college for! Next to the head, indeed! I'd like to know why you aren't at the head, where you ought to be."

The young man, naturally crestfallen, worked so hard on his return to college that the end of the term found him in the coveted place. He went home very proud, indeed.

The lawyer contemplated his son for a few moments in silence; then, with a shrug of his shoulders, remarked:

"At the head of the class, eh? Humph! That's a fine commentary on Harvard university!"—Harper's Magazine.

Peruvian Petroleum.

Efforts are being made to develop more extensively the petroleum resources of Peru. The known deposits of oil occur on a very narrow strip of land between the foothills of the Andes and the shore of the Pacific, and much of this is flooded at high tide. Piles of railroad iron driven in the pure ocean sand, which varies in depth from five to fifty feet, are used as foundations for the derricks. The shallowest of the driven wells is 180 feet, and the deepest 1,700 feet in depth. There is very little gas, and the oil is very heavy, so that it can be put into buckets with shovels, and it is carried direct to the furnaces to serve as fuel.

Mango in Porto Rico.

It is reported that the climate of Porto Rico is favorable for the cultivation of what has sometimes been called the finest of tropical fruits, the mango. But although mangoes abound in the island they are seedling trees, and the fruit is inferior to that of the famous Bombay mango, which is a grafted tree. It is believed that fine mangoes could be grown in abundance in Porto Rico by importing the best grafts, and that the industry can be developed into an important one as soon as the excellence of the fruit becomes known in the United States.

Looking for Oil in Spain.

It appears that there are at present eight companies engaged in exploration for oil in the Bilbao district, according to information published by the official chamber of mines at Bilbao. The denouncements of these companies in the Spanish Basque provinces alone of the Bilbao district cover many thousands of acres of lands which have been favorably reported upon by the companies' geologists. A number of borings have been made which have given favorable indications, but no results of a definite character have as yet been achieved.

NARCOTIC TAX PAYERS BEHIND

According to a survey made by Collector of Internal Revenue Cyrus Durey, covering registrants who hold permits under the federal government to manufacture, dispense and use narcotics in the 14th collection district, it was found that there are practically 3,277 of such registrants of all classes in this district.

It was disclosed by this report that there are in this district approximately 700 delinquent registrants who have failed to file the necessary return and receive authorization for the manufacture and administration of narcotics under the Harrison narcotic act.

Inasmuch as a penalty of $2,000 or a term of imprisonment of five years, or both, may be imposed upon violators of the narcotic laws, Collector Durey strongly urges those who have not made the necessary accounting of order forms and narcotics to do so at once and avoid liability to the penalties which may attach.

Monsignor Don Antonio Rella, conductor of the famous Choir of the Sistine Chapel, in Rome, has just arrived in New York with his choir of 54 singers, for an American tour. The Sistine is the Pope's own choir, singing only at functions at which he officiates.

Washable Paper.
Many possible uses suggest themselves for a special paper recently produced and patented by a Japanese inventor. The paper is said to be reasonably strong and can be crumpled up and washed with soap and water. So durable is this paper that it can be used as a covering for umbrellas and, when soiled, can be easily cleaned at home. As a wrapping paper, it could be used over and over, being washed when soiled. It is said that the product can be made at a reasonable price. It has a texture somewhat like cloth, and is not to be confused with oiled paper.

A Stride of Twenty-Five Feet.

The average ostrich can outrun the best Arab horse, if the bird will continue on a straight-away course. The fact that wild ostriches like to run in circles invariably leads to capture, as a well-trained Arabian horse will follow the shortest course, knowing that ultimately the fleeing ostrich will turn in his direction. In full flight the adult ostrich often shows a stride of 20 to 25 feet, which affords one explanation of its remarkable speed.—Nature Magazine.

Tied Fast in a Knot.

There was a half-distress look on the face of the recently arrived Sean O'Connell as he slowly discussed the new language he had been learning. "Aye tank," he said, "this country have funny language. Wan Aye get here my sister she say she too fat; she must 'fast.' I go store to buy cap, and the clerk he say the color in dis cap it ban 'fast.' A man tell me to tie my horse 'fast,' but the man Aye bought him from he say he already ban very 'fast' horse!"—Pathfinder.

Bill for Burning Martyrs.

The bill for burning the three eminent martyrs of England is preserved in the British museum, and is as follows: "Charge for burning the bodies of Cranmer, Latimer and Ridley: For three loads wood fagots, 12s; item, one load furze fagots, 3s 4d; item, for carriage, 2s 6d; item, a post, 2s 4d; item, two chains, 3s 4d; item, two tables, 6d; item, laborers, 2s 3d; total, £1 6s 8d."

A Lot About Abraham.

Being required to give an account of the patriarch Abraham, a youngster wrote: "Abraham was the father of Lot and two wives. One, was called Ishmale and the other Hagar. He kept one at home and he turned the other into the desert where she became a pillar of salt by day and a pillar of fire by night."—Boston Transcript.

Gas From Wood Waste.

Utilizing wood waste for generating gas is claimed by a Swedish saw-mill operator to save 75 per cent of the fuel used when the chips and sawdust are burned directly under the boiler. Added to this economy is a large production of valuable by-products, including acids, wood alcohol, and tar.

In the 1922 world series between the Yankees and the Giants Babe Ruth was everything a ball player shouldn't be. He hit like a blind man and batted like a cripple. In the 1922 series the Babe, who had just completed his greatest year in baseball, hit like a batting fool and fielded like the marvel he is. He hit two home runs in one game and a third—a new record—in the first inning of the last game of the series, which gave the Yanks their first world's championship. Ruth is shown as he crossed the home plate in the last game.

PROBE EVASIONS OF INCOME TAX

Investigations conducted by field deputies of the Internal Revenue Service indicate that hundreds of taxpayers in the Fourteenth District of New York, have neglected, intentionally or otherwise, to include as income in their returns for 1920, 1921 and 1922, profits realized from the sale of real estate, according to Collector Cyrus Durey, who several weeks ago ordered a rigid probe to be made of suspected evasions of income regulations.

In order to close up the government tax net, the collector has ordered that a transcript be made of all doubtful transfers. A careful investigation will be made of all these files, to determine whether or not the sales involved have been reported upon the income tax returns. Collector Durey suggested that all persons who failed to include the profit realized from real estate sales call at his office, or file amended returns.

In cases where the taxpayer does not voluntarily disclose items of income that were omitted, and where the gains from real estate sales have not been reported, the collector said that it would be necessary to assert full penalties from all returns where the investigation disclosed the failure of the taxpayer to include real estate gains in his income tax returns.

THE HISTORY IN THE CORNERSTONE

Clinton Avenue M. E. Church—What Will Be Read if Sealed Box Is Opened. Perhaps Centuries Hence.

The historical statement prepared for enclosure in the cornerstone box of the new church home of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, which was read at the exercises held at the church grounds Tuesday afternoon, October 16, 1923, is in brief form the interesting history of that church.

The statement was as follows:

Brief Historical Statement of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church.

In the fall of 1850 a society of Wesleyan Methodists began the building of a small church on the corner of Liberty street and East street (now Clinton Avenue). They worshipped here for about two years and then disbanded. After remaining vacant for a time, this building was occupied by the Presbyterians until the early part of the year 1855.

In May 1855, A. E. Schepmoes opened a day school in the chapel. It was then called. Soon Mr. Schepmoes proposed to open a Sunday school. The Rev. R. A. Chalker, pastor of St. James's Church, heartily approved this plan and called a meeting of his congregation on the first Sunday of June 1855. At this meeting a Sunday school was duly organized at the chapel. Shortly after organizing a Sunday school, a larger meeting was begun on Sunday afternoon. These meetings were well attended and a regular preaching service was established in July, the Rev. R. A. Chalker of St. James's preaching the first sermon.

In August of the same year, the Rev. L. L. Prentice, a young minister, was appointed to take charge of the work under the direction of the pastor of St. James's Church. The board of trustees was elected on October 17, 1855, and the church was organized under the name of the "Second M. E. Church of Kingston." The first membership roll contained but twenty-three names.

The church grew out of the organized Sunday school as a nucleus. For growth and prosperity this church has few parallels. The present brick edifice, as originally constructed, was built on this location during the year 1855, and was dedicated on January 19, 1859. The chapel was sold and taken to Glasgow for the Methodist society in the place, later it was again removed to another location to do service for another Methodist society.

During the years 1867-1868, the first parsonage was sold and the brick parsonage adjoining the church was built at a cost of $3,308. At this time the steeple was built on the church at a cost of $1,200.

Owing to the change of the name of East Front street to Clinton Avenue, it was deemed wise to change the corporate name of the church to Clinton Avenue M. E. Church. This change was made in the courts and reported at the third quarterly conference held October 31, 1874.

In 1878-79 the front of the church was so reconstructed as to allow two ways of exit in case of fire or panic. Many of the older members will recall the appearance of the front entrance as it was before the present entrance was built in 1916.

During the pastorate of the Rev. Alfred Coons, 1882-1884, an indebtedness of $5,000 was paid in full, and the occasion was celebrated by a jubilee on October 12, 1884.

The first pipe organ placed in the church was purchased in 1888 for $1,000.

Much needed improvements were made to the church during the summer of 1898. A new ceiling was constructed, the interior redecorated and a new carpet purchased. The total cost of these improvements was $1,400.

The next important building program came in 1905, during the pastorate of the Rev. E. M. Kniskern, when an addition of seven class rooms was built at the rear of the church, a new pipe organ was installed and new memorial windows were placed in the church auditorium at an expense of about $3,000. A reopening and fiftieth anniversary program was celebrated on January 14-21, 1906.

A marked improvement was made to the church again in 1916 by building a new front and a new main entrance to the church; the approximate cost being $6,000. This new entrance was dedicated as a fitting memorial to Bernard McBride who was superintendent of the Sunday school for many years. The dedication services were held November 19-26, 1916. This improvement was carried through by the energy and foresight of the Rev. G. M. Cranston who for eight years was pastor of the church.

In 1921 the Sunday school room was renovated and fitted with memorial windows, and new lights were installed.

The church auditorium was redecorated and a modern electric lighting system installed in 1922.

The statements above set down give, in main, the growth and development of the present Clinton Avenue Church building. During the sixty-eight years of its history, the church has grown steadily in numbers and spiritual power. From a membership of twenty-three charter members and a Sunday school of sixty pupils, Clinton Avenue M. E. Church has grown to a church of 367 members, as shown by the membership roll to be sealed in the box with other documents, and a Sunday school enrollment of 305 members with twenty-nine organized classes.

The organization of the present church, with its pastor, trustees, stewards, societies and other church officials, is fully shown by the program of this service a copy of which is herein attached.

The present membership of the church and Sunday school has outgrown the capacity of the present building, making it necessary at this time to enter upon a new building program.

At a special meeting of the official board called on July 30, 1923, it was voted to engage in a building program, and a building committee was selected and authorized to approve plans and commence operations provided the cost should not exceed $20,000. The committee is as follows:

Dr. William J. Cranston, chairman. Edgar B. Schepmoes. Raymond Haines. George L. Phillips. Frank S. Hyatt.

The Rev. Robert A. Greenwell. This building now under way includes the following: Purchasing for a parsonage the dwelling 123 Clinton Avenue, which is to be equipped with hot water system and electric lights; using the old parsonage for additional Sunday school rooms and for a church community house; constructing a new one-story brick building in the rear of and adjoining the old parsonage and church, to be used for extra Sunday school rooms, dining room and recreation hall. This addition is to be so constructed as to carry when needed, a second story to join and enlarge the main church auditorium.

The idea of this building and also plans similar to those now to be followed were initiated and elaborated by the Rev. G. M. Cranston, who was pastor of this church from 1914-1923. While the plans he made did not come to light until the architect's present plans had been accepted, still the idea and the agitation in behalf of it rightly belongs to him.

The first bit of manual labor performed in behalf of this building was done by William J. Cranston, son of Dr. and Mrs. William J. Cranston, and Cyrus Dingman when they removed a small quantity of dirt to determine the depth of the main foundation of the present church.

The cornerstone, which is to contain the copper box, was donated by Byrne Brothers of this city.

The copper box, 8 inches by 8 inches by 4 inches, was made for this purpose and donated by Floyd Elting.

The documents which are to be sealed in the box are as follows: Historical statement. A copy of the Methodist hymnal in use among us. A copy of the 1923 minutes of the New York annual conference. Building fund card. List of present membership. History of St. James's Church as prepared by Arthur Connolly in celebrating their centennial. Telephone directory. Two copies of church bulletin. A copy of Kingston Daily Freeman.

A copy of Daily Kingston Leader. A ticket of admission to Bishop Hughes's lecture tonight, October 16, 1923, "The Biography of the Boy."

A program of this day's services. Let it be noted, in conclusion, that these exercises are taking place exactly sixty-eight years, with the exception of one day, from the date when the church was set aside as an organized body, October 17, 1855, to October 16, 1923, and seventy-three years from the date of its birth, 1850-1923.

Pastor Greenwell Outlines Task.

The Rev. Mr. Greenwell, prefacing his introduction of Bishop Hughes, said this was a great day and a great hour for the Clinton Avenue Church. It had been expected the cornerstone would be laid at this time but work had been delayed and the foundation was not yet ready. Plans had been made for this date, however, and it seemed appropriate to go on with the exercises, particularly since Bishop Hughes had come from such a long distance, and carry out the original plans as far as possible.

Speaking as pastor, he considered it fortunate to have present so many city pastors, as well as the mayor, the president of the chamber of commerce and other prominent citizens, and he was grateful to all these people. He was also grateful to the official board which had undertaken a great task, but the official board of the church in past years had undertaken great tasks and carried them out successfully. When present plans are carried out, there will be a classroom for every class of the Sunday school.

The people of the Clinton Avenue Church are behind the project, said Mr. Greenwell. At the present time there are only forty-four subscriptions for a total of $6,888, but as the church now has a membership of 367, there are more than eight hundred yet to be seen, and when all have been seen, there will be sufficient funds to carry the project through.

He was also grateful, as were the congregation, to Bishop Hughes, who in order to reach Kingston had been compelled to travel all Monday night and would have to travel all Tuesday night in order to reach home.

The Church Not Dying.

Bishop Hughes, who was the speaker of the afternoon, humorously remarked that since the celebration was held one day ahead of time, the only way he could see to make his talk appropriate was to continue talking until just after midnight, and then he would have had something to say on the anniversary date.

One year ago, said Bishop Hughes, he was being taken by a Massachusetts man to one of the New England townships to deliver an address. The gentleman in question was quite puffed up over himself—the kind who mistakes swelling for growth. He was not a man of

CORNERSTONE BOX IS SEALED UP

With Ceremony on Site of Clinton Avenue Church's New Building—Bishop Hughes Present. With Mayor and Other Prominent Citizens—Church Permanent, Says Bishop, Who Denies Calamity Howlers.

Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, D. D., LL. D., of Malden, Mass., Methodist Episcopal Bishop of the Area of Boston, in his afternoon address in Kingston on Tuesday denied the calamity howlers who in every century and in every decade give warning that the Christian Church is on the edge of a precipice, ready to go over on account of some new invention or some new method of locomotion or transportation.

Jesus Christ is not a dilettante, said the bishop, and instead of allowing the church to go over the precipice on roller skates in one decade, or on bicycles in the next decade, or in automobiles in the decade following, he was making them all of service and usefulness to the church, which outlived them all.

Bishop Hughes's address in the afternoon was delivered at the sealing of the box for the cornerstone of the church home to be erected by the congregation of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church.

It had been the intention to have the occasion marked by the breaking of ground for the new building, but it was found impractical to break ground and not continue immediately with the work on the new building. Bishop Hughes had consented to be present on Tuesday, however, and it was therefore decided simply to have the ceremony of sealing the box for the cornerstone in order to avoid cancelling the opportunity of having him at the church. Lacking one day, it was the sixty-eighth anniversary of the election of the first board of trustees of the church.

Ceremony Largely Attended.

There was a large attendance at the ceremony which began at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and continued until nearly 6 o'clock. The ceremony and accompanying addresses took place on a large platform erected on the vacant lot in the rear of the former parsonage and alongside the church, occupying part of the space which soon will be covered by the new building. Seats for the audience filled the balance of the large lot, and all seats were filled and there was a large crowd which overflowed to the sidewalk and street.

Bishop Hughes, the Rev. Robert A. Greenwell, pastor of the church; the official board of the church; guests of honor and a large number of pastors of city churches of various denominations took their places on the platform at the hour appointed, and the exercises opened with the singing of "The Church's One Foundation," led by Arthur Allton, organist, and choirmaster of the church, who presided at the piano, and Miss May Eckert, violinist.

A Scripture selection was read by the Rev. William H. Moser, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. George W. Grinton, district superintendent of the Kingston district.

An interesting historical account of the church, a copy of which was later placed in the box for the cornerstone, was read by the Rev. M. Sheridan Pressey, pastor of the Fleischmann M. E. Church, a classmate of the Rev. Mr. Greenwell. The historical account will be found elsewhere in The Freeman.

The Rev. George M. Cranston, pastor of Grace M. E. Church of Newburgh, and pastor of the Clinton Avenue Church until last April, was introduced and spoke briefly of the pleasure it gave him to be present.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.))

BASKETBALL OPENS HERE TONIGHT

New Faces Will Be Seen on Armory Court When Morgenweck's Metropolitan Team Opposes Yonkers Quintet.

This evening at the armory professional basketball will open for the 1923-24 season. Kingston being represented this season in the Metropolitan League, the Jersey City franchise having been transferred by Manager Morgenweck to this city, will start this evening on a schedule of games that will extend its representative team to its utmost. Yonkers will open the season here.

If Manager Morgenweck is to duplicate the wonderful work made by his charges last season, he will have to do some extraordinary piloting, which he is thoroughly capable of doing. Benny Borgman will not wear the uniform of the Kingston team, which bespeaks and spells from one angle a harder fight for the local team. And from another angle, the teams in the Metropolitan League are much stronger than the teams last season in the New York State League.

But last season the local representatives didn't have Riconda, who is a mighty good guard and a good shot. Coupled with George Artus the Kingston team from past performances of these players, should have one of the best pair of guards in the circuit. Charlie Powers will again hold down the pivot position and his ability to jump and shoot baskets is well known by local fans. Carl Husta is the apple of Morgenweck's eye. Carl from his work last season should be a big find this year. Thomas is very little known on the local court. Mickey Husta will also be ready to play a forward position at any time. Husta, with the experience of last season, should make a creditable showing.

Although Yonkers lost its first game of the season Saturday evening to Paterson, it has a strong quintet. In Saturday's game Wassner and Kennedy were in the forward positions with Malone at center and Dreyfus and Gallard at the guard positions. This in all probability will be the line-up to face the Kingston team tonight.

Dolin, one of the many stars in the lineup of the great Camden team of the old Eastern League, has been placed on Kingston's list. Honey Russell, who had been previously stated as signing up with Kingston is with Yonkers team and may be seen in action at the armory tonight.

The game is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock this evening but being the first game here, it is not certain whether the Yonkers team, who are traveling by auto will be here on time. Manager Morgenweck stated this morning that in all probability it would start promptly or slightly later. The Imperial Orchestra will supply the music for dancing following the contest.

What and Where is St. Helena?

It is an island in the South Atlantic Ocean, 1,140 miles from the west coast of Africa, and was discovered by the Portuguese on St. Helena's day, May 21, 1502. It afterwards passed into the hands of the Dutch, who held it until 1800, when they were expelled by the English, the present owners. The island is of volcanic origin and covers an area of about forty-seven square miles. It is famous as the place of confinement of Napoleon Bonaparte from October 16, 1815, until his death, May 5, 1821. In 1840 his body was removed to France and deposited in the Hotel des Invalides in Paris.

Dig New Bed for Isar River.

By changing the course of the Middle Isar river, Bavaria expects to make possible the development of an electric current totaling 450,000,000 watt hours a year, an output that will put the plant among the largest of the world. It is estimated that this use of water power will result in a saving of 500,000 tons of coal annually. In digging the river's new channel, 7,000 men were employed.

The New Building.

The building occupied by the parsonage for many years, at the corner of Clinton Avenue and Liberty Street, is now vacant, the present parsonage being a more modern residence on the opposite side of the street. The old parsonage will be used as a church home, and after being remodelled will furnish additional classrooms to accommodate the twenty-one classes into which the Sunday school membership of 805 is divided. The frame addition at the rear of the old parsonage will be removed.

Cornerstone Box Sealed.

The copper box containing the articles enumerated in the historical statement, appearing elsewhere in the Freeman, was then sealed and the ritualistic prayer offered by birth, so we will be there at the death, steadfastly striving for better and cleaner manhood and womanhood.

"There never was a century when some people didn't say that the church was going to pieces, but the church continues and grows. The prophets of calamity were wrong."

Bishop Hughes referred briefly to the struggle over slavery, and the Civil War, and continued:

"When I entered the ministry, saloon-keepers were talking of us as long-haired men and short-haired women, and all a lot of fanatics, but in just the years I have been in the ministry the saloon has gone out of business while the church goes right on."

"We may have a hard time, but let any candidate think he can fool with these things, and before we get through with the campaign let him beware of the consequences."

"The hardest thing to kill is the church. The church believes in Jesus Christ yesterday, today and forever. When those who prophesy evil for us have gone, the church will continue to go on with its work of salvation and consolation, making men and women more and more into the image of our Lord."

"This is my message, that in spite of difficulties, we are going forward, prepared to do larger things for God."

In conclusion, Bishop Hughes expressed the hope that the new building would be completed soon and satisfactorily, and would be a great aid in carrying on the work of the church.
